

Henry D. Cains Mark Silver Anniversary At Reception

Social Scene

By RICHARD C. HENDERSON

Certainly one of the season's most beautifully arranged and outstanding affairs was the silver anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Cain, belatedly noted to correspond with the publication of the picture this week.

The Cains' home was decorated throughout with chrysanthemums, roses, silvered greenery, and attractive tropical plants.

Formally attired hostesses welcomed the guests and presented them to the receiving line, which included, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Cain and their son, Henry D. Cain, Jr., Mrs. Flora Bates, who was matron of honor at the wedding; Hugh Riddle, best man; Mrs. Louis G. Hill, who played the wedding march; and Mrs. Cain's mother, Mrs. Luvenia Abstone.

The guests were entertained periodically during the evening by soft music rendered by young Henry D. at the piano and William Godfrey at a bass violin.

In the dining room junior hostesses served trapped punch, yellow rose petits fours, silver leaf canapés, mints, and nuts.

The table was artistically decorated with silver candelabra bearing long tapers. Long-stemmed yellow roses were in silver vases flanking the huge wedding cake which formed the centerpiece.

Serving as hostesses throughout the evening were Mesdames Arthur Bethel, C. Farragut Allen, Ella Abel, Helen Brooks, D. T. Brock, George Bolen, Joe Butler, Elder Clay, Dewitt Cromer, Blanche Cross, Aletha DuValle, John Fleck, Rudolph Gardner, Theresa Givens, Delmore Hawkins, Harry Hawkins, Jack Higginson, Roy Howard, Willie Johnson, Roswell Jones, Stoughton Mendenhall, Leonard Moss, Benjamin Osborne, John Powers, Nellie Rogers, Jessie Stevens, Robert Simmons, Wilbur Tellefero, Elsie Walker, and Irene Winfrey.

Also serving were the Misses Virgie Dunville, Ethel Genus, Marilyn Harris, and Barbara Walker.

Only member of the original wedding party absent was Mrs. Morton Groves, the former Miss Sarah Loggins, Mrs. Groves, wife of the prominent Wilkes-Barre Pa., physician, called her felicitations from Pennsylvania.

And speaking of things which were very nice—One of the most enjoyable bridge club meetings I've ever attended took place Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Ann Kennerly was hostess to the Ish-

Pen-Ing club. For one thing, the luncheon was heavenly for another thing, they play SIX rounds; and for another thing, I held high score for the guests, receiving a very handsome silver and crystal jelly dish which the runner-up, Mrs. Audrey Howard, had tried in vain to talk me out of.

Also guests and receiving prizes were Mesdames Marguerite Norrel and Helen Brooks. Mrs. Helen Hill held high score for the club members, with other prizes being taken by Mesdames Stella Cox and Marion Burch. Also members of the club, of which Mrs. Lorene Harden is president, are Mesdames Lula J. Hinton, Hazel Hutchinson, and Emma Wilhite.

At the end of the evening, the members revealed "secret pals" and exchanged gifts, displaying some presents which anyone would envy. It was really a delightful afternoon.

The National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa's local chapter met with Soror Helen Stewart last week and exchanged Christmas gifts. Sorors Ora Thomas and Harriett Cheetam were elected delegates to the national convocation to be held in Nashville.

The local chapter is sending a Christmas box of stockings and sox to the Alpha Home, Soror Gertrude Robinson is basileus, and Soror Myrtle Bebel is publicity chairman.

Coming as a pleasant surprise among this week's Christmas cards was one from Captain Frederick H. Evans, serving on the Korean front, who sends good wishes to all his friends.

Capt. Evans, regimental surgeon of his regiment, has complete charge of the collecting station right behind the battalion aid station on the actual war front.

He writes home that Christmas here is very, very real, what with deep snow and the determination of the soldiers to make their own Christmas. There is much to admire in the spirit of fighting men who do not let the fact of being in the midst of war blind them to the remembrance and celebration of Christ's birth.

Many of you readers probably know by now that Carter P. Temple, son of Mrs. Lucy Temple, is now Fr. Temple. He was ordained to the priesthood in St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Chicago, last Saturday and is continuing at the church as a member of the staff of the church.

BRIDE-ELECT: December 26 is the date set for the wedding of Miss Jean Lane to Airman Third Class Willard Nance. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lane, 1430 East 30th street. A graduate of Crispus Attucks high school, she now attends Indiana University. Before entering the Air Force, Mr. Nance attended Indiana University.

Voice of the Eastside

It was interesting to note the very fine cooperation of the Dixie Four and the Mastin Singers last Wednesday night at South Calvary Baptist Church under sponsorship of the usher board, of which Felix Moore is president. Thomas Smith is director of the usher board chorus.

The Dixie Four, having made 3,000 broadcasts, gave the audience some of their very latest songs, accompanied by their pianist who just tickled the keys and had many feet patting. I am unable to say whether it was the spiritual songs or the pianist who made the feet move, but the Dixie Four really sang!

We must say that Miss Henry Lee Sherrill, organist for the usher board chorus, let the Dixie Four pianist know that, although she was blind, she could tickle those keys, too. She was grand.

William Bailey, one of the old faithful ushers of New Bethel Baptist Church, accompanied the old scribe, Rev. L. A. Manuel is pastor of the church.

"You can't kick and pull at the same time," said Dr. F. F. Young last Sunday during the 21st anniversary celebration of Rev. P. D. Jacobs as associate pastor of Mt. Paran Baptist Church, of which Dr. C. H. Bell is pastor.

Others appearing on the afternoon program were Revs. J. F. Johnson, William McReynolds, and N. E. Matthews, Atty. C. D. Jacobs, and Mesdames Mabel Foss, Louise Hazel, and Blossom Jones, director of the church choir.

Selections were rendered by the choir of First Baptist Church, North Indianapolis and the youth choir of First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Mary Gamble was general chairman, while John R. Pitts was co-chairman. Miss Betty Jean Kelly served as secretary.

Your columnist, as assistant lady attendant, presented the purse from employees of the Jacobs Brothers Funeral Home. A purse of more than $200 was presented to Rev. Jacobs, with the committees taking care of Mrs. Jacobs, who was unable to be present due to the sudden illness of a brother in New York.

Many commended Dr. Bell and the church for the fine spirit they have shown in celebrating the associate minister's anniversary each year.

Following up the Founders' Day turkey dinner given by the Baptist Ministers' Wives Alliance, some have asked that the oldest members be mentioned in this column, which is seemingly read by most church members.

Among the beginners are Mrs. Charis W. Lewis, a charter member; Mrs. Maggie Johnson Casion, first president; and Mrs. J. I. Saunders, who has served over twelve years. Other beginners are Mrs. W. Z. Thomas of Muncie and Mrs. Bell Hinton, Chicago, who were unable to be present in the beautiful annex of New Liberty Baptist Church on December 8 for the dinner.

Each past president was presented flowers by Mrs. J. T. Ward, and selections were dedicated to each of them. The program marked the 29th year of the organization.
