

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

June 28, 1993

Greetings to the veterans and families of the 294th Port Company gathered in Hampton, Virginia, to commemorate the 50th anniversary of your entrance into World War II.

Your unit served the United States with special honor and distinction during a crucial period in history. We owe our liberties to the sacrifices of people who, like you, were willing to risk their lives for freedom. I know you will enjoy your time together as you reflect on the bonds you share.

Each of you embodies the spirit of pride, professionalism, and accomplishment that makes the United States Army one of the finest fighting forces the world has ever known. I salute you for your distinguished record of service.

Best wishes for an enjoyable reunion.
