But one dead lamb is there;
There is no fireside, howso'er defended
But has one vacant chair.*

Dorothy Flenough 18.

*The fools spurn Hymen's gentle powers,
We, who improve His golden hours,
By sweet experience know
That marriage, rightly understood,
Gives to the tender and the good
A Paradise below.*

—Cotton.

*To the nuptial bower
I led her, blushing like the morn; all heaven,
And happy constellations on that hour
Shed their selectest influence; the earth
Gave sign of gratulation, and each hill;
Joyous the birds; fresh gales and gentle airs
Whispered it to the woods, and from their wings
Flung rose, flung odours from the spicy shrub.*

—Milton (Paradise Lost.)

*The honours of a name 'tis just to guard;
They are a trust but lent us, which we take,
And should, in reverence to the donor's fame,
With care transmit them down to other hands.*

*Were virtue by descent, a noble name
Could never villanize his father's fame,
But, as the first, the last of all the line
Would, like the sun, ev'n in decending, shine.*

Thus born alike, from virtue first began
The difference that distinguished man from man;
He claimed no title from descent of blood;
But that which made him noble, made him good.

Meantime a smiling offspring rises 'round,
And mingles both their graces. By degrees
The human blossom blows; and every day,
Soft as it rolls along, shows some new charm:
The father's luster and the mother's bloom.

*There have been wedlock's joys of swift decay,
Like lightning, seen at once and shot away;
But theirs' were hopes which, all unfit to pair
Like fire and powder, kissed and flashed to air,
Thy soul and mind, by mutual courtship won,
Union of hearts, not hands, does marriage make,
And sympathy of mind keeps love awake.*

—Aaron Hill.

I know he's coming by this sign,—

That baby's almost wild!

See how he laughs and crows and starts,

Heaven bless the merry child!

He's father's self in face and limb,

And father's heart is strong in him,

Shout, baby, shout and clap thy hands

For father on the threshold stands.
